HOW DOES LIVE SCAN WORK?

The true identity of an individual can be established through the submission of fingerprints. Live Scan technology replaces the manual process of recording an individual's fingerprint pattern using an inkless electronic process. Live Scan digitizes the fingerprint characteristics that make fingerprints unique and enables the electronic transfer of the fingerprints and personal data to the Department of Justice (DOJ) in seconds.

Once the DOJ receives the fingerprints and data, the Automated Fingerprint Identification System (AFIS) and National Transaction Management System (NATMS) process them. Most are processed electronically but the few that are not are forwarded to the DOJ's Applicant Response Unit for analysis.
